

No.

Handwriting practice grid with a central row. The grid consists of 30 columns and 31 rows. The central row, which is the 16th row from the top, contains two smiley face icons (:) facing each other. The remaining 30 rows are empty for writing practice. Each row is bounded by solid lines, and each column is bounded by solid lines. The grid is designed to help children practice letter formation and alignment.