Introduce you to current theories and fundamental goals and principles of second and foreign language assessment.

Help you develop an ability to construct and evaluate language tests and analyze test results.

Can be counted as a required elective for Applied Linguistics MA students, and an elective for General Linguistics MA students.

Can be counted toward the Advanced TESL/TEFL Certificate.

May be of interest to upper-division undergraduate students (especially those in Education, Liberal Studies, RWS, Spanish, Portuguese, etc.) if you are interested in developing an ability to construct and analyze language tests.

The pre-requisite course (Linguistics 550) may be waived.
